CONCEPT SYNTHESIS

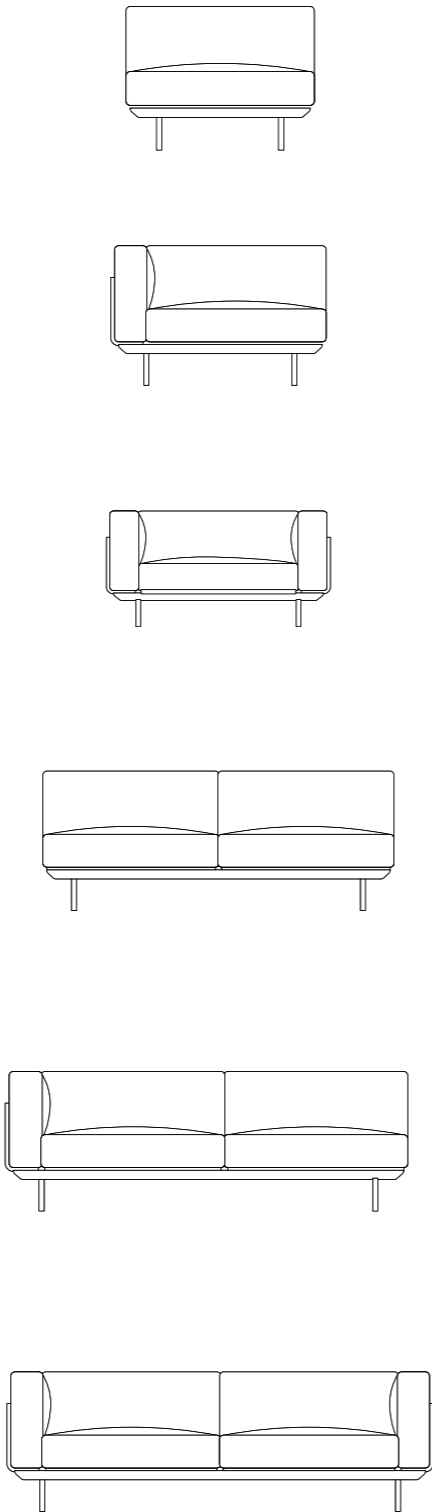

L-SOFA combines classic and contemporary artistry, using the flexibility of the wooden shell and the luxurious comfort of generous cushions.

As you continue to look and read about this innovative soft seating selection, you will see why we believe it is quite unique.

STRUCTURE OF SIMPLICITY

Firstly, the simplicity of the design where distinctive wood panels act as a structural element to support the generous cushions. Flexibility of the L- Sofa allows for a wider range of typologies (armchair, sofa, right angle, central and side element arrangements).

WOOD & COLOUR

L-Sofa's wood panels not only act as a structural element but also provide for an eye catching feature.

With the adaptability of the L-Sofa design there are also the many possibilities with its features. From having the structural oak panel in a natural finish or colour lacquered, the complementary matt brushed metal base through to the tactile quality of either fabric or leather cushions.

AESTHETICS

ARTISTIC TASTE

Sectional and modular elements of L-Sofa can be combined in many different ways in order to create your favourite composition. From subtle pastels to bright colours, you can put your own mark on this product.

PRODUCT LIFECYCLE

L-Sofa has been designed to meet best quality standards regarding both the materials and the manufacturing. At Marelli Italy, special attention is given to the study of product life cycle, and to the use of recycled and recyclable materials.

The planning phase focuses on balancing the design requirements with the ones linked to the product sustainability, so the materials are chosen on the basis of these principles.

Environmentally safe sustainable materials:

- > polyurethane-foams are CFC free and don't contain toxic substances
- > wood comes from certified PEFC forests
- > leathers come only from tanneries situated in the north of Italy with high environmental standards and/or with certificates of environmental balance of product.

● TIMELESS

● Unique appearance, design and quality of the L-Sofa selection, makes it stand out from the generic soft seating products.

● Composition and balance of this product along with complimentary materials and skilled craftsmanship resulted in timeless, design led pieces.
